SUCCESSES AND CHALLENGES

The Gambia listed the following program successes:

- a) Attainment of gender parity in favor of girls;
- b) Improved attendance and retention rates in the Basic cycle;
- c) Transfer of cost of feeding from beneficiary families.

Program strengths reported were:

- a) Improvement in community participation;
- b) Intersectoral coordination;
- c) Improvements in education and social indicators.

A setback reported was that the program targets were not achieved. The Gambia also reported that the program faces the challenge of capacity building of institutions and structures in coordination and implementation.

The introduction of the code of conduct in school feeding in The Gambia reduced the level of corruption drastically.

STUDIES CONDUCTED

- a) Cost benefit analysis,
- b) SABER (Systems Approach for Better Education Results) assessments.

Benefits reported were that the program improved social wellbeing in communities and created job opportunities for women in communities.

NOTES:
The program uses two modalities simultaneously. 75% of the participating schools receive conditional cash transfers to purchase food for the program; in-kind donor contributions account for the remaining 25%. Of the food purchased in country, about 30% is from local sources near the schools. Donors include the European Union, Japan, and South Korea. WFP is a partner. In 2016/17, WFP handed over two regions for government implementation as part of a gradual handing-over process.
